FREDERICK NEWTON NAMED OUTSTANDING PROFESSOR

Dr. Frederick A. Newton, associate professor of psychology, has been selected as the college's outstanding professor for 1982, President John M. Pfau announced today.

A member of the faculty since 1975, Newton will represent the campus in the Board of Trustees' Outstanding Professor Awards program. Each year, the CSU honors two distinguished faculty members. This is the second year the San Bernardino campus has participated. Nominations for outstanding professor were received by the selection committee from staff, faculty, students and administrators.

The committee, chaired by Dr. Stuart Ellins (Psychology), also included Dr. Michael Clarke (Public Administration), Dr. Arlo Harris (Chemistry), Joseph Moran (Art), student Shari Mills, and Dr. J. Cordell Robinson (Academic Affairs).

Dr. Newton was selected because of his demonstration of superlative teaching, both inside and outside of the classroom, and for his contributions to psychology and to the campus and community.

His contribution to the field of psychology in the areas of biofeedback and brain laterality have been widely recognized. Newton also has conducted research projects dealing with effective classroom teaching and has served as consultant and writer for television programs on "Understanding Human Behavior" which are geared for introduction to psychology classes and have aired throughout the United States on PBS.

He has served on numerous campus committees, including the Open House Committee, Student Union Board of Directors, the School of Social and Behavioral Sciences Curriculum Committee, Student Development Committee, Committee on Use of Drugs on Human Subjects. He also was very active on the Career Day Committee and on various committees within his department.

Newton received his bachelor of science degree from St. Peters College in New Jersey, his master of science degree from Villanova University in Pennsylvania and his doctorate from the University of Houston.

EOP ACCEPTING APPLICATIONS

The Educational Opportunity Program (EOP) is accepting applications for spring and fall quarters. Under the program, disadvantaged students are admitted to the college and receive financial aid, tutoring, academic advisement and other support services.

For spring quarter, which begins March 31, EOP is accepting only students who do not meet the regular admission requirements. Applications must be received by Feb. 26. Both students who meet the general admission requirements and those who fail to qualify are eligible to apply for the EOP for fall quarter. They are urged to apply by March 1.

Members of the campus community who know of students who might be interested in EOP are asked to call Marco Cota or Shirley Alvarez, EOP outreach counselors, at 887-7395, for more information.

PARKING FEES TO BE CHARGED FOR MOPEDS

Beginning spring quarter, parking fees will be charged for mopeds, motorized bicycles. The new requirement is a result of a recently passed state assembly bill requiring registration or licensing of mopeds. Fees on this campus will be 25 percent of those applicable to automobiles, or $1.25 per month, the same as for motorcycles.

Founded in 1963, the National Shakespeare Company plays annually to audiences totaling more than 175,000 in 120 cities. Each year, the company auditions more than 2,500 actors in cities across the United States.

A romance of mystery and magic, "The Tempest" is about a shipwreck on an enchanted island inhabited by the magician Prospero, his daughter, Miranda, and the half-monster Caliban.

"The Taming of the Shrew," Shakespeare's depiction of the battle of the sexes, is one of his most often performed comedies. Shakespeare wrote this entertaining farce about the tumultuous courtship of Katherine and Petruchio early in his career. Among the interpretations of this play are a movie version starring Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton, and the musical "Kiss Me, Kate," loosely based on Shakespeare's play, with music by Cole Porter.

Morning and afternoon workshops, which will be open to the public, also are planned. The times are to be determined.
